The Saints

The Church also honors the other saints who are already with the Lord in heaven. These are people who have served God and their neighbors in so outstanding a way that they have been canonized. That is, the Church has officially declared that they are in heaven, holds them up as heroic models, and encourage us to pray to them, asking their intercession with God for us all.

We do not worship the saints; we honor them as heroes. They are people like us who have achieved the goal. They are with God.
